After the acquisition of Nokia's mobile devices department by Microsoft the company was renamed to 'Microsoft mobile'. The brand 'Nokia' will be replaced in the near future.

Stephen Elop: "Microsoft Mobile Oy is a legal construct that was created to facilitate the merger. It is not a brand that will be seen by consumers. The Nokia brand is available to Microsoft to use for its mobile phones products for a period of time, but Nokia as a brand will not be used for long going forward for smartphones. Work is underway to select the go forward smartphone brand."
Q&A at Nokia.com, 28th April 2014.
